APPENDIX A - 1980 SRS File Totals

APPENDIX B - 1981 SRS File Totals

INTRODUCTION

This report covers the calendar years 1980 and 1981. Data are presented on filings, dispositions, and pending cases for the Supreme Court, the District Courts of Appeal, the Circuit Courts and the County Courts. Breakdowns include the number and types of trials in the circuit and county courts and the types of dispositions for various case classifications.

The data presented herein has been collected by the clerks of court at the county, circuit and appellate levels.

This report also describes the State Courts System, and some of the activities of the State Courts Administrator's Office.

The filing and disposition data presented should not be interpreted as a complete measure of judicial workload for each of the courts since case disposition requires differing amounts of judicial time depending upon the types of cases involved and the issues raised in each case. Tabulations of filed and disposed cases do not reflect the complete workload which certain cases create. Case frequency and type vary from jurisdiction to jurisdiction. The filings and dispositions should be considered as representative of the number of cases processed by a particular court.

As is true with the caseload data, caution should be exercised in the interpretation of pending case figures. The number of pending cases should be considered as the number of cases open on December 31 of the year. Taken alone, this figure is not an accurate measure of case backlog.

STRUCTURE

Florida's State Courts System consists of:

A Supreme Court
Five District Courts of Appeal
Twenty Circuit Courts
Sixty-seven County Courts

The Florida State Courts System is divided by statute into five appellate districts and twenty judicial circuits. The number of judges who serve each court is provided by general law, with the exception of the number of Supreme Court Justices which is fixed at seven by the State Constitution. The Supreme Court is required by the Constitution to recommend changes in appellate districts and judicial circuits, and in the number of judges in the appellate and trial courts. Such recommendations are certified to the Legislature prior to its regular session each year. The legal jurisdiction of the circuit and county courts is provided by general law and is applied uniformly throughout the state.

Florida Judicial System

ORGANIZATION

The Supreme Court

The Supreme Court serves as the state's court of last resort. It sits at the Capital, Tallahassee, and has statewide jurisdiction. There are seven Justices of the Supreme Court with the Chief Justice elected by a majority of the members of the Court. Five Justices constitute a quorum, with the concurrence of four Justices necessary for a decision. Oral arguments are heard by the Supreme Court en banc (seven Justices) for appeals involving capital cases, the validity of a state or federal statute, or provisions of the Florida or Federal Constitution. Qualified judges assigned to temporary duty may be substituted for the required Justices.

The District Courts of Appeal

The District Courts of Appeal are Florida's intermediate appellate courts and there are five appellate districts. Court offices are located in Tallahassee, Lakeland, Miami, West Palm Beach, and Daytona Beach for Districts I, II, III, IV, and V respectively. In 1980, the First District had 11 judges, the Second District had 8 judges, the Third District had 8 judges, the Fourth District had 8 judges and the Fifth District had 6 judges. In 1981, the First District had 12 judges, the Second District had 9 judges, the Third District had 9 judges, the Fourth District had 9 judges and the Fifth District had 6 judges. A Chief Judge for each district is chosen by a majority of the judges thereof, or if there is no majority, by the Chief Justice. Three judges are required to sit on each case with the concurrence of two necessary for a decision.

Circuit Courts

The circuit courts constitute Florida's trial courts of general jurisdiction. The territorial jurisdiction of the twenty judicial circuits follow county lines. There were 309 circuit court judges in 1980 and 326 in 1981. A Chief Judge for each circuit is chosen from among the judges of the circuit as provided by Supreme Court Rule.

County Courts

The county courts are Florida's trial courts of limited jurisdiction. There is a county court in each of the sixty-seven counties with the county boundaries serving as the territorial jurisdiction of each. There were 198 county court judges in 1980 and 201 in 1981.

MULTIJURISDICTIONAL SENTENCING GUIDELINES

In September, 1979, the Office of the State Courts Administrator was awarded a $270,000 grant from the National Institute of Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice and the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration to develop sentencing guidelines in four of the state's twenty judicial circuits. The primary objective of the project was to test the feasibility of developing a unified set of sentencing guidelines in a multi-jurisdictional setting, and to evaluate the effectiveness of guidelines as a mechanism for promoting consistency in sentencing between jurisdictions.

A thirteen-member Sentencing Advisory Board was appointed to oversee the development and implementation of the sentencing guidelines. The Board was chaired by a Justice of the Supreme Court and consisted of four voting members (one Judge from each circuit) and eight ex officio members who served in an advisory capacity. The selection of the ex officio members was based on a desire to complement the judicial experience within the four circuits with a statewide perspective offered by the expertise of representatives of the various criminal justice agencies and organizations involved in the sentencing process.

Four circuits were selected to participate in the study: the 4th (consisting of Duval, Clay and Nassau Counties); the 10th (Polk, Hardee and Highlands Counties); the 14th (Bay, Calhoun, Gulf, Holmes, Jackson and Washington Counties); and, the 15th (Palm Beach County). The selection of these sites was based on an assessment of the availability of sentencing data, a desire to have a representation of urban, suburban and rural felony cases, and a geographic distribution reflective of the varying social and political attitudes within the state.

The project involved three distinct phases during 1980 and 1981. The first phase lasted for approximately seven months and involved the collection and preliminary analysis of a large number of felony cases sampled from the four jurisdictions. This provided the project's advisory board with a general description of the historic sentencing practices operating within each of the circuits. A total of 5,100 felony cases were sampled. Based upon an examination of the overall frequency of offenses, the data sample was grouped into six categories based upon the similarity of the type of offenses:

Offense Category	Offense Included:
1	Murder, manslaughter, kidnapping, Lewd and Lascivious assault
2	Aggravated assault, aggravated battery, battery of a law enforcement officer
3	Burglary with assault, robbery, burglary of an occupied dwelling, structure or conveyance
4	Burglary of an unoccupied dwelling, structure or conveyance, armed burglary
5	Grand larceny, grand theft, dealing and receiving stolen property, forgery, worthless checks
6	Possession, sale, delivery, importation of a controlled substance

The sentencing guidelines were not designed to cover all criminal felony statutes. It was estimated that the offenses included within the six offense categories constituted approximately 80-85% of the felony caseload in the four pilot test jurisdictions.

During the subsequent five months, staff analyzed the data in order to identify the offense and offender-related characteristics exerting the greatest influence on the sentence decision-making process and the relative weight assigned to each characteristic by the trial judge. The statistical analysis provided the Advisory Board with a mathematical description of implicit sentencing policy operating within the four jurisdictions. The Board then evaluated the data in order to determine whether such policy should be amended or refined. Specifically, the Board assessed the propriety of the offense and the offender characteristics historically given consideration by the trial judge, eliminated any characteristics which it found to be inappropriate for use in sentencing and added those variables which should be considered in any sentencing decision. From the remaining data a set of six sentencing guidelines was constructed corresponding to the six offense categories.

The final phase of the project was a twelve month implementation period lasting fron April 15, 1981, until April 15, 1982. During this period, the judges were required to consult the sentencing guidelines as part of the sentence decision-making process. The trial judge had the discretion to either impose the recommended sentence or, if warranted by the nature of the offense and the offender characteristics, impose a sentence outside of the recommended range, provided that the decision was accompanied by a written statement delineating the reasons for his decision. These reasons were periodically reviewed by the Advisory Board to determine the appropriateness of the sentence ranges provided by the guidelines, as well as assessing the need to add additional offense or offender variables to the guidelines.

On January 7, 1982, Chief Justice Alan C. Sundberg made his recommendations to the Florida Legislature regarding the implementation of statewide sentencing guidelines. Based upon the knowledge acquired during the pilot effort, it was the opinion of the Chief Justice and sentencing project staff that the development and implementation of sentencing guidelines on a statewide basis was feasible and would lead to a reduction in unreasonable sentence variation.

Subsequent to the Chief Justice's report to the Legislature, SB 410 was passed by the 1982 Legislature establishing a statewide Sentencing Commission. The Sentencing Commission will consist of fifteen members and will be responsible for the development of a system of sentencing guidelines on a statewide basis.

SUMMARY REPORTING SYSTEM REVISION

The Summary Reporting System (SRS), the Supreme Court's caseload reporting system, was established under the provisions of Section 25.075, Florida Statutes, in January of 1977.

Statistics on case filings and dispositions for the Supreme Court, appellate courts, circuit and county courts are submitted to the Office of the State Courts Administrator on a monthly basis by all Clerks of Court.

The Summary Reporting System provides the Office with the data necessary to assist the Supreme Court in its management role. Information from the reports is routinely used for certification of judicial need and budget formulation. In addition, the Summary Reporting System serves as an information resource for other criminal justice agencies in Florida.

In January of 1981, the Office of the State Courts Administrator began an evaluation of the validity and reliability of the SRS data and a review of the system as a whole. Essential to this effort was the documentation of any problems and variations associated with the established reporting requirements. Through fieldwork in a sample of nine counties and input from clerks of court, trial court administrators, judges, legislative staff and other users of the data, problematic areas of the then current SRS form were identified. In conjunction with this effort, each data element was reviewed to assess its relevance in the measurement of judicial workload.

It was apparent that many of the identified problems could be alleviated by providing uniform data element definitions and consistent, detailed reporting instructions. Likewise, a number of simple modifications in the SRS form and reporting procedures could increase the effectiveness of the system and make the data more readily interpretable.

Refinements to the Summary Reporting System which would enhance its accuracy as an indicator of judicial workload proved to be more difficult. At its best, summary data can yield only gross estimates of judicial involvement in cases. However, some relatively minor modifications of the form could allow a more realistic and meaningful workload interpretation of case filings and dispositions.

For instance, the addition of a category to report criminal cases disposed because the prosecutor declined to file an information allowed an estimate to be made of those case filings that do not proceed past arraignment and, therefore, do not consume a significant amount of judicial time. In traffic cases, a better estimate of judicial workload can now be obtained since those cases disposed at a court hearing are isolated from those terminated at the Traffic Violations Bureau of the Clerk's Office. Likewise, in civil cases those matters submitted to arbitration or mediation are now reported separately from those which are disposed by the judge.

Several categories were added to better estimate the amount of judicial time allotted to post-disposition activity. For instance, a category was added to all sections of the form to report reopened cases; that is, all cases previously reported as disposed which are reactivated or resubmitted to the court. Likewise, a separate count was made of post-conviction relief motions in the circuit and county criminal sections.

A number of alternative forms were submitted for the review and comments of clerks, court administrators, and other interested parties during the course of the revision. In September of 1981, a final draft report form and instruction manual were pre-tested in six counties to assess the practicality of the proposed changes. Final revisions and refinements were made following the pre-test and an implementation date of January 1, 1982, was established.

In November and December, 1981, five regional training seminars on the revised Summary Reporting System were conducted. The new SRS instruction manual and report form were distributed to all counties at that time. The transition to the revised SRS reporting requirements has proceeded smoothly following implementation. Site visits were made to several counties in the Spring of 1982 to assess the degree of compliance with the revised reporting requirements and to uncover any problems that might not be apparent in the in-house monitoring effort.

Review of the Summary Reporting System is an ongoing activity of the State Courts Administrator's Office. Staff is available to respond to inquiries and problems from both the recorders and users of SRS data. Yearly up-dates to the instruction manual and training sessions are also part of the effort to ensure valid and reliable SRS data.

PERSONNEL CLASSIFICATION & PAY PLAN

In 1979, the Supreme Court, with the passage of Section 25.382(3), Florida Statutes, obtained the authority to determine the qualifications and compensation of employees of the State Courts System. Previously, this authority was vested in the Executive Branch.

In an effort to act reasonably and responsibly, the Court began a systemwide classification and pay study early in 1980. The study utilized a methodology which maximized objectivity and was based upon accepted principles and practices of personnel administration to arrive at equitable classification and pay relationships.

The first step in the study was to gather input from all employees. Input was gathered from each individual employee by means of a position description questionnaire (PDQ). The PDQ consists of a series of specific questions which have been carefully constructed to help employees provide answers directly useful in applying the evaluation factors. As a result, employees are able to make a better and more organized presentation of their work. To insure understanding of the purpose and questions in the PDQ, employees in each of the twenty circuit courts, five district courts, Supreme Court, and State Courts Administrator's Office attended on-site presentations. In addition, efforts were made to interview each Chief Judge, Trial Court Administrator, and Clerk or Marshal while on-site to identify specific concerns and problems to address in the study. These on-site presentations were conducted over a five-week period in 1981. Employees were told that if any problems or questions arose, they were to contact the Personnel Section within the Office of the State Courts Administrator. Employees were allowed two to three weeks to complete the PDQ. PDQ's not received within that time were followed up with a telephone call, insuring almost 100% participation of employees in the study.

After gathering input from all employees via the PDQ, the next step was to group similar jobs into classes. A representative job was then selected from each class or group as the benchmark. A benchmark is an evaluated PDQ which, because of its predictable similarity or close relationship in type and level to other positions, has considerable worth as an analytical tool. The benchmark chosen in each group was the position which best represented the class or group as a whole. This benchmark was evaluated against evaluation factors and a point score was arrived at for that position. This point score applied to the class of positions.

Based on the information obtained in the PDQ and personal interviews with employees and their supervisors, class specifications were drafted for each new class. These class specs were distributed to the appropriate courts for review. Following their review, meetings were held with the Executive Committee of the Circuit Judges Conference and the Appellate Judges Conference to explain the methodology and obtain input. Classification adjustments which provided a more accurate and complete description of the duties performed were made based upon input from the courts.

A salary survey was also conducted which involved several steps. The first was identifying public and private sector employers who were competing for employees with comparable job skills to employees in the State Courts System. Chief Judges, Court Administrators, Clerks and Marshals were asked to identify employers in their immediate geographic area with whom they felt they had to compete for employees.

The next step was to select a representative sample of classes to survey. Thirty-four, or approximately one-half, of the classes in the State Courts System were surveyed. Salary survey questionnaires were received from 41 state courts systems, and 29 additional public and private sector employers responded to the request for salary information.

To establish the relationship between point scores and salary survey results, the statistical technique of "ordinary least squares regression" was used to determine the equation of the line which minimizes the distance from the data points to the payline. This computed line best fits the given data points according to a statistical criteria. Calculating the payline rate at each level gave us the "entry" salary for classes in each skill level.

The minimum of the pay range for each skill level was computed from the payline based on the "entry level" salary survey data. Having calculated minimums and maximums for each skill level or pay grade, the salary schedule for employees of the State Courts System was developed.

An objective of the Classification and Pay Study was to correct classification inequities and raise the minimum salaries of pay ranges. The results of this Study were presented to the 1981 Legislature in the form of a pay plan for all employees of the State Courts System, and the Legislature approved that plan after careful review.

In the Spring of 1981, work was also begun on updating and making technical revisions to the Florida State Courts System Personnel Regulations Manual. Revisions were made in the areas of: annual leave accrual; personal holidays; sick leave; and, maternity leave. The Personnel Regulations Manual was amended effective October, 1981, and copies distributed to administrative personnel and Chief Judges.

JUROR UTILIZATION AND MANAGEMENT

The Office of the State Courts Administrator has been involved in jury management since 1978. In that year, a seven county Florida Jury Procedures Study tested and developed procedures designed to reduce expenditures for juror per diem and mileage fees. At the conclusion of the study in June, 1979, five of the seven counties reported significant jury fee savings. Two procedures were instrumental in the reduction of jury fee expenditures. First, during the study the use of telephone answering devices to notify jurors not to report for service if unneeded was an effective means of reducing juror costs. Second, the use of single-day empanelment was found to greatly reduce both juror per diem costs and juror inconvenience. Single-day empanelment is the procedure in which all judges use the same day of the week to select jurors for all jury trials scheduled by the court for that week.

As a result of the accomplishments made during the Florida Jury Procedures Study, in September, 1979, the OSCA was awarded one of eight statewide jury management grants from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration. This project, the Florida Juror Utilization and Management Incentive Program (JUM), was a $300,000, two-year grant that included the participation of 30 of Florida's 67 counties. The Florida JUM Program concentrated its efforts around 12 primary areas of jury management. These areas were:

- Jury system planning and evaluation
- Source list(s)
- Qualification/summoning
- Exemptions, excuses, and postponements
- Orientation
- Term of service
- Jury pools
- Standard panel sizes
- Calendar coordination
- Voir dire
- Monitoring and control

As with the previous Florida Jury Procedures Study, several procedures were found to be effective in reducing both jury fee costs and juror inconvenience. At the conclusion of the JUM Program in September of 1981, the following procedures were found to be effective:

SINGLE-DAY EMPANELMENT - This procedure was found to be the most efficient method of reducing both the term of service and jury fee costs. Before implementation of single-day empanelment, Alachua and Escambia Counties were expending over $500 per trial. After implementation, the cost of a jury trial was reduced to less than $250 per trial. Also, the term of service was reduced for prospective jurors to a day and/or a trial. If a juror was not selected to sit on a trial at the end of his first day of service, he was dismissed. If a prospective juror was selected to sit on a trial, he served only for the length of that trial.

ANSWERING DEVICE USAGE - Answering devices were provided for all participant counties for juror notification purposes. The use of answering devices proved to be an effective means of reducing juror fee costs.

STREAMLINED SUMMONS DESIGN - Summonses were designed for 20 counties which provide prospective jurors with clear and concise information regarding their upcoming jury service. Instructions regarding answering device usage, directions to the courthouse, and what to wear were contained in an information sheet provided with the summons. An excuse form and instructions for its use was also provided with the summons.

JUROR ORIENTATION SLIDE SHOW - A standardized juror orientation slide show, 16 minutes in length, was distributed to 26 of the 30 participant counties. This presentation provided basic information in a consistent manner regarding terms and procedures that a prospective juror may encounter during his term of service.

Based on the success of the previous efforts, funds were provided by the 1981 Florida Legislature to the Office of the State Courts Administrator to continue to improve jury management in the state's courts. To this end, the OSCA provides technical assistance and training on every aspect of jury management. For example, in January, 1982, counties that did not participate in the Florida JUM Program were invited to attend a jury management seminar in Tallahassee. At this meeting, the Florida Juror Manager's Handbook was distributed. This manual was developed by OSCA staff during 1981 to provide jury clerks and their assistants with the technology and data collection instruments needed to assess the overall efficiency of their jury system, as well as diagnose specific jury management problems. This manual is organized into four main sections:

1. A diagnostic section dealing with each phase of jury system operation;
2. An assessment section, including data collection forms, accompanied by instructions and definitions;
3. A material aids section containing information on answering devices, audio-visual equipment, and summonses;
4. A section including the Florida Jury Management Resource Listing containing information on resource persons who have exhibited support and expertise in areas of jury management.

Answering devices for juror notification purposes were provided to each county at the seminar. Every court in the state now has the capability to notify jurors not to report unneeded. Each month the number of persons summoned, available to serve, used in voir dire, sworn as trial jurors, and the number of jury trials and juror days paid is reported to the OSCA. In return, each month the OSCA performs an analysis of each court's data and sends a report to each jury system manager containing the analysis of the jury management information.

GUARDIAN AD LITEM PROGRAM

In August, 1980, the OSCA, commenced pilot testing the effectiveness of lay citizen volunteer guardians ad litem in child abuse and neglect cases. The purposes of the project were: (1) to develop comprehensive training for volunteer lay citizens; (2) to implement several volunteer guardian ad litem projects within selected judicial circuits of the state; (3) to determine the comparative cost and quality effectiveness of three different methods of implementation of Florida's Guardian Ad Litem legislative mandate.[1]

Training and Education

Comprehensive training manuals and curriculum were developed for instruction of project staff and individual

[1] In 1978, the Florida Legislature enacted Florida Statute 827.07 (16) mandating the appointment of Guardians Ad Litem to represent the child in all child abuse and neglect judicial proceedings. OSCA was requested by the Legislature to report the effectiveness of three different models, i.e. representation by the Office of the Public Defender; private attorneys; volunteer lay citizens.

volunteers appointed to represent children. An audio-visual program was developed to assist in public education and awareness of the problems of abused and neglected children, and the need for providing quality representation to children in court proceedings. With the assistance of program brochures, the audio-visual presentation was used to recruit members of the community interested in serving as guardians ad litem.

Staff training manuals outline the methods of implementing local programs, public education and recruitment, selecting and supervising volunteers, and the use of community resources. Volunteer manuals instruct volunteers on the role and responsibilities of guardians ad litem, skills necessary to perform duties, and the types of resources available to the court for helping children. Volunteers also receive in-depth training from staff in areas indentified in the project's training curriculum.

Implementation

By 1981, ten circuit programs had been implemented in the state. Project staff in the OSCA assisted circuit judges and court administrators in hiring and training staff, which included a local director (Circuit Coordinator), Assistant, and Program Attorney. Each pilot program is supervised locally by judges and court administrators, with the assistance of community advisory boards. Additional staff support is provided by local experts in the medical, mental health, law enforcement and social work professions, who donate their time in training and advising volunteers. Programs exist in the following areas:

CIRCUIT	LOCATION	COUNTIES SERVED
1st	Pensacola	Escambia, Okaloosa, Santa Rosa, Walton
2nd	Tallahassee	Franklin, Gadsden, Jefferson, Leon, Liberty, Wakulla
4th	Jacksonville	Clay, Duval, Nassau
6th	Clearwater	Pasco, Pinellas
8th	Gainesville	Alachua, Baker, Bradford, Gilchrist, Levy, Union
10th	Bartow	Hardee, Highlands, Polk
11th	Miami	Dade
12th	Sarasota	DeSoto, Manatee, Sarasota
18th	Sanford	Seminole
18th	Titusville	Brevard
20th	Ft. Myers	Charlotte, Collier, Glades, Hendry, Lee

Evaluation

During the first year of program implementation, independent evaluators determined that the volunteer model was the most cost effective based upon the data presented from 600 cases. Volunteer guardians ad litem performed five major roles for the child and court in each case:

INVESTIGATOR: Volunteers conduct numerous hours of independent investigation on behalf of the child including interviews with medical professionals, mental health staff, sources in the neighborhood and child's family, schools, law enforcement and the child; and the collection and review of numerous documents and records. Over 60% of volunteer time is spent in investigating the allegations of child abuse and neglect, and the alternatives available to the court for resolution.

MONITOR: The volunteer assures that agencies and persons provide services or communicate with the child properly, in addition to assuring that orders of the Court are carried out.

PROTECTOR: The volunteer protects the child from insensitive questioning and the often harmful effects of being embroiled in the adversary court process, and assures that legal counsel in the program represent the child in contested legal proceedings.

SPOKESPERSON: The volunteer assures that the child's wishes are heard and that the best interest of the child is presented to the Court and agencies dealing with the child. Volunteers spend significant time in providing emotional support to the child during the difficult judicial process.

REPORTER: The volunteer presents information to the Court in a written form at each hearing in the proceeding to assist the Court in determining what is in the child's best interest.

Continued evaluation has shown that volunteer guardians ad litem provide necessary services to the court and the child, especially in the areas of monitoring the child's progress and locating more effective resources for the child and family, or more beneficial temporary placements for the child in the community. The latter benefit saved the state monies in excess of the cost of the pilot project.

The Guardian Ad Litem is viewed as an officer or 'arm' of the court who presents an independent, objective analysis of the facts to the judge prior to decision-making. Local supervision of the program assures that staff and volunteers meet the needs of the juvenile judge and children in the varying communities of the state.

The program was found to have several humanistic benefits. Volunteers have become more aware of local child abuse and neglect problems, and judicial processes. Each volunteer expends countless hours in service to needy children in the juvenile court system. Additionally, volunteers bring prior professional and life experiences to bear in helping children, and provide an intelligent, thorough, common-sense approach to resolution of family problems. They unite children with relatives previously unknown to local agencies who provide more caring environments for the child as opposed to institutional placements. When children are placed by the court back in the home of parents suffering problems, the volunteer assures that the child is not further endangered, and that the family receives necessary services from community agencies.

Evaluators concluded that the pilot project should be implemented throughout the state in a permanent status, which has been received favorably by the Legislature in 1982.

Summary

The OSCA Project is a unique approach to providing independent representation to children and needed information and assistance to juvenile judges. OSCA has established minimum standards for screening, training and supervising volunteers to assure quality performance. State technical assistance and coordination has provided continued staff training, communication between programs and ongoing data collection and case management while encouraging local program management of geographical, cultural and economic problems faced by each program.

DWI SCHOOL COORDINATION

The Florida DWI School program is a court supervised sentencing alternative program for an average of forty thousand persons convicted annually of Sections 316.665 and 316.193, Florida Statutes, and an additional thirteen thousand out-of-state violators. The primary purpose of the DWI school is to provide educational services to DWI offenders. Secondarily, the DWI school assists certain DWI offenders to identify a personal substance abuse problem. Recently, the DWI school program has expanded to provide the county courts with a probation service for DWI offenders.

The State Courts Administrator's Office has an Office which coordinates the DWI school program for the Judiciary. The Coordination Office monitors the activities of thirty-eight agencies which have been certified as eligible to conduct a DWI school program and designated by the Chief Circuit Judge in each of Florida's twenty judicial circuits. The DWI Coordination Office provides technical assistance on a variety of programmatic issues to county judges, legislators, community agencies, DWI school personnel, private individuals, and other state and federal agencies. The DWI Coordination Office promotes training of judges, administrators of DWI programs, and DWI school instructors and/or evaluators. The Office recommends policies and procedures relating to standards for operation of DWI schools, judicial relations, certification of DWI schools and personnel and reciprocity of DWI offender case information between the states. The DWI Coordination Office maintains an ongoing liaison with thirty-eight states, who cooperate with Florida in the disposition of out-of-state DWI cases.

The DWI Coordination Office works closely with a committee of the Supreme Court known as the Traffic Court Review Committee. The Committee consists of a Justice of the Supreme Court, Circuit Judges, County Judges, Clerks, private attorneys and a representative of the state Driver's Licensing Office, and reviews policies established by the DWI Coordination Office. The Committee ultimately recommends policies for practice and procedures in the overall area of traffic court-related matters.

The thirty-eight agencies designated to conduct DWI schools for Florida's judicial system are non-profit or governmental organizations. There are seven safety councils, thirteen mental health agencies, three alcoholism programs, five DWI programs, two community schools, three community colleges, one county governmental agency, and four military schools. Each agency is governed by a board of directors or comparable governmental entity and administered by a director or coordinator. The schools employ statewide 335 professional persons as instructors and/or evaluators who are individually certified by the DWI Coordination Office.

The local DWI schools have developed relationships with County Judges, Clerks and other court personnel. The County Judges in Florida have relied on the DWI schools to provide educational services to over 240,000 of Florida's citizens convicted of DWI offenses. In an effort to provide the local community with programs which meet the needs of their community, a number of DWI schools provide additional services. These services include, diagnostic evaluations, referral to treatment, counseling, and specialized education courses. Each DWI school is completely financially self-supporting from fees which are charged to DWI offenders.

JUDICIAL EDUCATION

A specialty course on Court Administration for newly selected chief judges and trial court administrators, conducted with the aid of instructional resources from The National Judicial College, was a part of judicial educational events during 1981. Insertion of such specialty courses began in 1980 with the successful implementation of a program for county judges covering the Adjudication of Serious (DWI) Traffic Offenders. The Court Administration offering, planned for biennial execution, is projected to alternate with a specialty course for juvenile court judges, while the traffic adjudication activity will be an annual program similar to the basic course for new trial judges, The Florida Judicial College.

In addition to the College, the semi-annual, conference-conducted educational activities at all three tiers of the court system continued to serve as vehicles for updating the Florida bench on new developments in the law and refinements in judicial practices. Major topical emphases were on: felony sentencing, search and seizure, mortgage foreclosures, child support enforcement, landlord and tenant, stress management, and the interpretation and application of statutes.

During 1981 the Florida Court Educational Council adopted a curriculum plan for State-based judicial education. Under this plan, every topic germane to judicial education warranting treatment at the State and local level is treated once every four years. The plan gives design, coherence, and completeness to judicial educational activities in Florida, while also furnishing a substantive basis for maintaining a complementary relationship between nationally-based and state-based judicial educational opportunities.
